WHY BUY SOLID WOOD?

There is a big difference between a solid wood table and a table made with veneer and particle board. A solid wood table is exactly that, 100% solid wood. A veneer table is constructed with a very thin layer of veneer (1/32" or less) and particle board. Particle board is made from small chips of wood held together with resin and glue. The veneer is glued to the particle board to give the appearance of a wood table.

Remember the old saying, "you get what you pay for." Buying a solid wood table can actually be less expensive when considering it can last a lifetime. Buying a Brooks solid wood table today is the same as investing in an heirloom of tomorrow.
